

New Project Management Course from Concept to Occupancy!

Starting this September, 2010 the OGCA along with James Mansfield, Associate at Kasian Architecture Ontario Incorporated are proud to present a New Project Management course from Concept to Occupancy!

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

The purpose of this course is to discuss current project management practices throughout all phases in the development of a building project. Emphasis is given to the practical application of current project management issues during the tendering and construction phases of a project.

The course is addressed to an audience that is experienced with construction and/or acquainted with management principles who is looking to improve their skills for more effective project management. The perspective taken will be a non partisan or unbiased view of project management issues. The objective of this course is to address issues in the construction industry in a manner that will provide knowledge that is useful and applicable to all project stakeholders. The project management topics in the course curriculum are directed to general building projects in Ontario, but will also be applicable to most construction projects, both in Ontario and nationally.

The course is currently being submitted to CCA for gold seal accreditation and recognition for CPD points by OAA and PEO.

The course is divided into 11 presentations on Wednesday evenings, starting September 29TH, 2010. The project management presentations will also be made available in a webinar series, details to follow.

If you are a General contractor, Sub trade, engineer, estimator, architect or project manager then this course is for you!

Topics include:

- Methods of Project Delivery
- Pre-Construction
- The Bidding Process part 1 & 2
